Not bad for a bleeps-and-bloeps soundtrack - and I never complain when there's some snare to go with the kick (full-blown "techno" \u2665\u2665\u2665\u2665\u2665 me to tears) - but no great shakes to be found here unless you like to wear big booties in nightclubs while waving glow sticks around. It's nicely produced for non-AAA product, is a pretty reasonable length, and entirely competent for what it is. The rest, as always, is up to personal taste.

Me, I'm gonna file it under "indifferent", and chuck it on when I'm looking for a fairly non-specific musical mood, with perhaps a slight leaning towards the "perkier" side of things. It's not joyful enough to keep the razor blades at bay, though, and I'd frankly rather snuff myself to something classy like The Cure's "Disintegration" or Joy Division's "Closer". I'd be kinda embarrassed to be found dead in my apartment with THIS on heavy rotation.

Verdict: 6.5/10.. Idk but it's not working :( . C:> Program files(x86)> Steam> Steamapps> common> Dungeon Escape> Soundtrack>

The only good part about the game, well done, Hatebit.
